

The latest default report by the Federal Student Aid office of the United States Department of Education provides load default data. The most recent data available is for the years 2015, 2016, and 2017.

Default rates by year:

2015 – 9.6% (n=115)

2016 – 7.6% (n=84)

2017 – 3.8% (n=45)

A screenshot of a web-based report showing student loan default data. The header includes "START HERE" and "FY 2017, 2016, and 2015". A "RETURN TO RESULTS" button is visible in the top right. Below the header, it says "Record 1 of 1". The table content is mostly obscured by a large black redaction box, but a column header "OPF" is visible.

The student loan default rates can be viewed at the following website:
https://nslds.ed.gov/nslds/nslds_SA/defaultmanagement/cohortdata_3yr.cfm